

THE PENGELLY CENTRE

The Pengelly Centre provides comfortable but basic self-catering accommodation, which is reasonably priced. There is accommodation for 25 residents, and a wide range of educational and research facilities.

The Centre is used by primary and secondary school groups, and by students from further and higher education.

Although we try to keep the centre as clean and tidy as possible, it is largely used by groups involved in caving and other outdoor activities.

Occasional public courses and tours are arranged, and the Centre is open to visitors at various times of the year.

The Trust's cave studies centre is located in Buckfastleigh, Devon, Southwest England, close to Dartmoor National Park and the South Devon coast.
